Tornado Activity

Texas

- More than 100 homes were damaged Monday afternoon after a tornado ripped through Harris County, Texas.
- No serious injuries or deaths have been reported after the storm, said Brian Murray, spokesperson for the Harris County Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Management.
- Its intensity has not yet been rated, and survey teams will head to the site on Nov. 25, the weather service said.
- A second unconfirmed tornado on the same day is also being investigated after moving over parts of Austin and Waller counties.
- Many of the damaged homes are in the Memorial Northwest neighborhood.
- At the peak of the storm, roughly 28,000 utility customers in the Houston area were without power, but by late Monday, only an estimated 4,000 remained in the dark, CenterPoint Energy said.
