WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

April 28, 2023

Severe Weather Outlook

- Scattered showers and storms are ongoing across the South at this time.
- Storms packing more large hail could also impact parts of the eastern Florida Peninsula and also parts of the Mid-South region from eastern Arkansas to western Tennessee, northern Mississippi and northwest Alabama.
- A second weather system diving south through the Plains could trigger more scattered severe thunderstorms in Texas Friday afternoon and evening, in some of the same areas affected Tuesday and Wednesday. This includes the Interstate 35 corridor from Dallas-Fort Worth to San Antonio.
- Large hail and strong wind gusts are the main hazards, but isolated tornadoes are possible.
- Otherwise, at least isolated severe thunderstorms are possible once again from parts of the Carolinas to Florida Friday afternoon.

Severe Weather Activity

Florida

- A multiday severe weather threat continued Thursday, spawning tornadoes across portions of the Southeast.
- The National Weather Service warned of a damaging tornado in Hosford, Florida, around 4 p.m. ET.
- The town is less than an hour's drive outside Tallahassee, and PowerOutage.us reported nearly 80 percent of Liberty County was without electricity.
- Homes are seen without roofs, while debris is scattered across the area. Trees were uprooted, snapped in half and thrown onto the property.
- The local sheriff's department reported widespread damage in the rural county, and damage assessments were underway for the likely tornado.
