WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

February 12, 2026

Severe Weather Outlook Southern U.S.

- An area of low pressure is expected to bring several inches of much-needed rain to parts of the region from Friday through Sunday.
- This rainfall will increase the risk of flash flooding with the threat likely to continue into the weekend.
- A widespread 1–3 inches of rain is expected through Sunday.
- According to the FOX Forecast Center, an upper-level disturbance will move out of Baja California and into the Southwest and Southern Plains this weekend.
- As it emerges into the southern U.S., it will develop an area of low pressure that tracks into the Southeast.
- Currently, 1–2 inches of rain are possible across the Southern Plains to the Southeast coast.
- Localized totals of 2–3 inches may occur in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia.
- A flash flood risk has developed across parts of Oklahoma and Texas on Friday.
