WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

January 6, 2026

Snow Northern U.S.

- A fast-moving clipper system began Monday and is expected to track through New England.
- Light snow fell across parts of the Northeast on Monday, with a few inches reported across portions of New England and few light snow showers in areas such as New York City.
- Tuesday, an additional storm system will push into the Upper Midwest.
- The NWS has issued a Winter Weather Advisory for parts of Minnesota, including the Twin Cities, until noon on Tuesday.
- Ice amounts appear light, according to the FOX Forecast Center, but it is still a concern in cities such as Detroit, Minneapolis, and Green Bay, Wisconsin.
- To wrap things up on Wednesday, another system is expected to reach New England, bringing another mixed-precipitation setup.
- A mixture of snow showers and ice remains the main threat for the northern tier of the U.S. this week.
