WSP USA INSPECTION SERVICES DISASTER AWARENESS REPORT

May 1, 2026

Rain Forecast Northeast U.S.

- A coastal storm is expected to deliver a glancing blow to the Northeastern.
- Ahead of the storm, another round of rain will punctuate what's been a soggy work-week for the region.
- Moving through the Ohio Valley and western New York into the Northeast and New England through the day and into the evening on Friday.
- The coastal storm is expected to form off the coast of North Carolina early Saturday and track up the Eastern Seaboard through the day.
- Current forecast models show that the storm will remain somewhat weak and farther offshore.
- As a result, most coastal areas will only see less than a quarter of an inch of total rainfall.
- Washington, D.C., New York, Philadelphia and Boston will see rain begin late Saturday afternoon, before quickly tapering off by Sunday morning.
- The rain will be accompanied by temperatures 10 to 15 degrees below average for this time of year, with overnight lows in the 40s and even the 30s across the region this weekend.
